

NEW! MOBILE TECHNOLOGY

Benefit Strategies is now offering the ability for iPhone or Android users to access their account information directly through their phone. Research has shown that 76% of adults in the United States have mobile phones and 67% use text messaging. A predicted 50% of United States mobile users will have an iPhone or Android by 2012. This confirms that more Benefit Strategies consumers than ever may rely on their phones to access important account information.

iPhone or Android users can gain access to their account information through one of the following methods.

- Search for the mobile application by typing "Benefit Strategies" into the Apple App Store or the Google Android Market
- Log on to your consumer portal through the Benefit Strategies participant website by following the instructions below
  - Go to www.benstrat.com_then_choose the participant login.
  - First time users will have the option to create a unique username and password using basic demographic information.
  - Once logged in online you will see the section called "New Mobile Apps". Click the "Learn More" button and the system will walk you through the process.

The following information is accessible through the application:

- Available Balance
- Final Service Date (final date to incur claims)
- Final Filing Date (final date to submit claims)
- Convenient customer service contact information
